Dear Reader,

Coptic Church Review was created to present scholarly articles to those with interest in ancient history, spirituality, and theology of the Christian Coptic Orthodox Church. Published since 1980, the journal's goal has been to provide a forum for Coptic studies and all related fields. It has published articles and book reviews by various scholars in the fields of: Bible, Liturgy, Patristics, Spirituality, and Coptology.

As of this year, the Archdeacon Habib Guirguis Educational Fund will assume the responsibility of publishing the Coptic Church Review while maintaining the originally established purpose of the journal. Coptic Church Review is widely distributed to libraries across the globe and is available on many major internet databases, including ATLA (American Theological Library Association).
